Operators Cool to Suggestions That Fairs Be Dropped

Officials of Lee County Fair and Horse Show Await ODT Decision

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—The folks who run the country fairs, those jamborees of jellies and pies and hogs and steers, are upset over a government suggestion that they be cancelled for the duration.

While some of the state and county expositions, long a happy rural institution, have been called off because the Army has needed the fair grounds, officials of a large number received the government plea with decided chilliness.

Some were quick to say that when Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director, asked the farmers to postpone the fairs he was not in accord with Agriculture Secretary Wickard, who earlier urged their continuance as a morale builder.

The attitude of large numbers of the fair operators appeared to be that they wanted to be shown that cancellation was absolutely necessary to the war effort. Others intended to go ahead with their plans unless forbidden by order to do so. Still others cancelled all plans in deference to the request. Some deliberated.

Reaction to the Eastman suggestion included:

Some Reaction
Wisconsin—Officials tell Eastman fairs are part of war effort because they further sale of war bonds and stimulate food for victory program.

Minnesota—State fair "Food for Victory" program going ahead along with 99 county fairs.

Iowa—Sectional fair managers urge reconsideration by Eastman, but Gov. Wilson favors deferment of state fair.

Indiana—State fair plans abandoned recently when grounds taken over for government purposes.

Kentucky—State fair board to deliberate. Several small county fairs called off.

Ohio—State fair cancelled for duration and grounds leased to army. Canvass shows many of 92 county and independent fairs favor cancellation.

Illinois—State fair already cancelled—army using grounds. Many

Quarter Hour Bus Service Approved

Reports for the fiscal year ending April 18 from the departments of City Clerk Wayne C. Smith, City Treasurer Fred K. Tribou, Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber, Fire Chief Sam Cramer, Superintendent J. A. Snyder of Oakwood cemetery, and Chief Librarian Margaret Scriven were presented at the regular weekly meeting of the city council last evening and by action of the commission were filed.

Two property owners living south of the Northwestern tracks and east of the Illinois Central tracks appeared before the commission and requested aid in locating a roadway to their properties. The council members assured the petitioners that a survey would be ordered to determine whether their properties are located inside the city limits or in South Dixon township.

An amendment to the Dixon Transit Co. bus ordinance provides for 15 instead of 30 minute service over the regularly scheduled routes within the city limits.

Amos H. Bosworth, William H. Macflier, Mrs. Lucille N. Warner, Miss Ruth Dysart, James B. Lennon and Miss Dorothy Armington were named by Mayor Slothower to succeed themselves as members of the directorate of the Dixon public library.

The War Today!

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst
(Telegraph Special Service)

There seems to be no reason to doubt the report from competent quarters in London that British Premier Churchill, now in this country conferring with President Roosevelt, is urging that the United States provide reinforcements to stabilize the Mediterranean front, since that would be a logical request in view of the latest developments.

Loss of control of this zone—one of the foundation stones of Britain's strength—might cost the allies the war.

The Eastern Mediterranean—taking in Egypt and the Suez canal which Nazi Marshal Rommel now is trying to reach across the smoking sands of the Libyan desert—is strategically an inseparable part of the Russo-Middle East cock-pit in which our argument with Herr Hitler bids fair to be pretty well ironed out this summer. Or let's put it this way:

Hitler must break into the Russian Caucasus or the Middle East, or both, in order to get the supplies which he needs to keep his war machine running. As you know, now there are two main routes to his goal. One lies through Soviet Marshal Timoshenko's Red front in the Ukraine—a gallant line which Hitler thus far has failed to crack. The other is through Turkey, or around Turkey, and so into Syria.

Upon Russia's sturdy shoulders depends the defense of the Ukraine gateway. But blocking of the Hun drive through or about Turkey is largely up to Britain and the United States.

If the allies fail in the defense of either of these routes, the fat will be in the fire. The fueler will have gone a long way towards winning the war. Thus the protection of the Mediterranean wing becomes an imperative part of allied strategy.

The allied set-up in Libya and Egypt has been thrown out of kilter rather badly by Rommel's success in isolating the important British-held Libyan port of Tobruk and forcing the main body of the British Eighth army to fall back towards the Egyptian border. It isn't that Rommel has won a decisive victory, but that his offensive if continued, would tend to improve his master's chances in making a blitzkrieg against the

Longview, Wash., June 20.—(AP)—A dozen lumber mill workers decided "this war is everybody's funeral if we don't win it."

Ashton Flier Rescued from Shark-Infested Sea With 55 Companions

Somewhere in Australia, June 20.—(AP)—Six allied airmen clung to a rubber raft in shark-infested waters of the Coral sea for two-and-a-half hours before being rescued by natives in canoes, Capt. J. Moye of Ashton, Ill., said today. Before their disabled plane hit the water, the fliers saw a school of 60 to 70 sharks.

Moye said the bomber was returning from a successful attack when one of the motors failed and the plane went into a spin. One of the crew was killed when the plane hit the sea.

"He didn't give himself a chance," Capt. Moye said. "He was trying desperately to save the ship, working on the motors up to the moment we hit the water."

Former Aide-de-Camp to Gen. MacArthur Tells of Their Loyalty

Honolulu, June 20.—(AP)—Filipino men and women are fighting the Japanese, and will continue to fight them, Lieut. Col. Carlos P. Romulo, former publisher and one-time aide de camp to General Douglas MacArthur, said today.

The year 1942 so far has been a momentous one for Romulo. He fought through the Philippine invasion and was one of the last men to leave Bataan peninsula; he escaped from the islands aboard "The Duck," an antiquated fighting plane; and he received the Pulitzer prize for his interpretive articles on Malay and Asia.

Romulo, on his way to the United States mainland to receive his prize award, waved aside a proffered cigar during the interview. "No thanks," he said. "No smokes for me since Bataan. I gave them up because I had to. A package of cigars sold for $20 on Bataan."

Romulo was publisher of the Manila Herald, the Malabuhay Monday Mail Debate and four other venacular newspapers, before the Japanese bombed the Philippines.

He ruefully emphasized the word "was." Enemy airmen bombed his printing plant for two consecutive nights, and destroyed it.

Rockford Killer Is Convicted; 14 Years

Rockford, Ill., June 20.—(AP)—A Circuit court jury last night convicted Horace Leo Turner, 51, father of seven children, on a charge of murdering his 32-year-old estranged wife, Margaret. His punishment was fixed at 14 years in prison.

The jury of ten women and two men deliberated four hours.

Mrs. Turner was killed last March 8 by a shotgun blast through a window of the home of William Mitchell, Jr., where she had been staying after leaving her husband. She was seated on aavenport in the Mitchell living room when she was killed.

Five of Turner's children by a former marriage, testified in his behalf but the defendant did not testify. They said that their stepmother entertained "nine or ten men" in their home while their father was in jail for more than a month last winter on a morals charge.

Judge William R. Dusher announced arguments for a motion for a new trial would be heard on June 26.

Big Nazi Offensive Framing Up

Mass Executions in Poland Take Lives of Men and Women

Nazis Also Begin Purge of "Anti-Social" in German Reich

London, June 20.—(AP)—The news service of the Polish government-in-exile declared today that a new wave of mass executions had begun in Poland and that more women were falling before Nazi execution squads.

Of 15 persons said to have been hanged recently in Poznan, the agency asserted 12 were women. Among other executions, it said, 40 persons, including 22 women, were removed from Warsaw prison, taken to Modlin fortress and shot.

A purge of "anti-social elements"—a euphemism for all who disagree with the Nazis—has begun in Vienna and the lower Danube province of Austria, the German news agency DNB reported today, intimating that the campaign would embrace the entire German Reich.

In a radio broadcast, DNB defined the "anti-social" person as anyone who "owing to criminal, anti-state or queerous inclinations continually enters into conflict with the penal law, the police and other authorities."

These, it said, represent "an element of unrest of the first order," so that their elimination was "very important, particularly in wartime."

Those arrested will be sent either to welfare institutes, to forced labor, or to Gestapo "education camps," the broadcast said.

It indicated that the purge included persons deemed of unsound mind or immoral but that it also was taking in all persons deemed by the Nazis to be "incapable of living in the community" for any reason.

Text of Broadcast
While persons hostile to the German state have long been subject to Nazi retribution, the campaign against dissidents obviously is being intensified.

It appeared also that this might be the first instance in which Adolf Hitler, through his underlings, is exercising the powers of supreme judge which he arrogated to himself April 26.

Apparently the Nazi party will be prosecutor, judge and jury, leaving only the sentencing to government authorities.

The broadcast said: "The fight against anti-social elements always has been a foremost problem of population policy."

"In some provinces of the Reich an attempt has now been made to take active steps to fight those incapable of living in the community."

The leadership of the National Socialist (Nazi) German Workers' Party for racial policy has welcomed and approved these steps.

"Since anti-social persons represent an element of unrest of the first order, this work is very important, particularly in wartime. x x x

"Throughout the entire Reich there must be a uniform conception of who is capable of living in the community."

"To insure this uniform attitude, clarification of the term recently arrived at in the Gau Niederrhein (lower Danube province) has been made compulsory. It conforms with directives issued by the Reichs ministry of interior concerning definition of hereditary diseases."

"Incapable" Defined
"According to this leaflet individuals incapable of living in a community are all those who owing to their mental attitude are incapable of satisfying the minimum requirements of the national community regarding their per-

Ingenious Scheme to Extract Income Tax from Earners

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—An ingenious but complicated scheme to compel individuals to shift gradually to payment of their federal income taxes out of each pay-check gained strong support today in the house ways and means committee.

Randolph Paul, tax advisor to Secretary Morgenthau, laid before the committee a plan, which members said they probably would approve in some form, involving deductions from pay envelopes and salary checks, beginning next January, of 10 per cent of an individual's tax liability—his salary minus exemptions—for that pay period.

Half of these automatic deductions would be applied against this year's tax liability due in 1943. The other half would accumulate in 1943 against the income tax payable in 1944.

Under the plan, individuals would be paying nothing but current taxes out of their current pay-checks within two years.

The committee has decided to lower the personal exemption of a single person from $750 to $500 and for married persons from $1500 to $1200. In addition, it raised the normal tax rate from 4 to 6 per cent and the lowest surtax rate from 6 to 12 per cent. Experts have estimated that these changes would produce $2,700,000,000 of the present total of $6,640,000,000 in new revenue the committee has decided to raise.

U.S. To Use Cuba As Anti-Sub Base

By The Associated Press
The nation looked hopefully toward Cuba as a new anti-submarine springboard today after a dark day that brought announcements of nine sinkings in Atlantic and adjacent waters.

The official toll of cargo carriers in the Western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor mounted to 256.

The state department in Washington announced an agreement had been reached by which Cuba "offered facilities to the United States War Department for training aviation personnel and for operations against enemy undersea craft. Work on these installations will begin at once."

The latest U-boat victims were three United States ships, two Dutch, one Norwegian, one Canadian, one Dominican and one Panamanian.

In the case of the Dominican schooner La Nueva Altagracia, the submarine captured the entire crew after the sinking. The prisoners later were turned over to the Dominican sloop Comercio, which was forced to jettison its cargo and warned to discontinue sailings.

Six men were lost from one of the American vessels, which went to the bottom in 20 minutes after two torpedo hits June 10. After drifting-in-lifeboats 12 hours, 38 of the crew reached port.

The second U. S. ship was shelled until she sank, 31 survivors reported. Eight crewmen from the third U. S. vessel made port.

British Subs Sink Three Enemy Ships

London, June 20.—(AP)—British submarines have sunk three large Japanese ships in the Straits of Malacca, the admiralty announced today.

The admiralty's submarine: "His majesty's submarine operating in eastern waters have reported successful attacks on Japanese shipping in the Straits of Malacca."

"One submarine attacked a convoy consisting of three ships. The most important of these ships, a very large vessel, was torpedoed and sunk."

"Another of His Majesty's submarines torpedoed and sank two large Japanese supply ships."

The Straits of Malacca separate Malaya and Sumatra, both overrun by the Japanese early this year.

The date of the British submarine action was not given.

Tornado Causes Serious Damage

Robinson, Ill., June 20.—(AP)—Residents of Robinson today were salvaging the wreckage left by a tornado which cut a 10-mile swath through the countryside, damaging buildings and crops.

The tornado struck the northern outskirts of Robinson yesterday, moving several houses from their foundations and uprooting trees. Several persons were injured.

Heavy damage was reported in the rich Lamotte prairie bordering the Wabash river. Estimates of damage run into the thousands of dollars.

FDR and Churchill Thought Outlining Allied Counterblow

United States Forces May Be Rushed to Africa Front

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill were believed today to be mapping counterblows to a desperate axis summer offensive in Europe, Asia and Africa.

The White House continued the strict official silence imposed when the strategy conferences were announced Thursday night, but the official encouragement to speculate on invasion of the European continent, the grave turn of the war in Africa and the rising fury of conflict on the eastern front indicated to many in the capital that decisions were being made in the knowledge that Berlin and Tokyo already were sending new forces toward a battle whose zero hour was drawing near.

The allied high command, it was thought, would certainly have received advance intelligence of any tremendous German move in Europe.

Observers pointed out that diplomatic sources in London had known several months before it started and that the British had tried to stem the German drive through the Balkans with troop convoys which had to be planned weeks in advance.

Any large-scale change in German dispositions now, it was said, could hardly have been concealed from air reconnaissance or the eyes of the tens of millions of defeated peoples in countries through which troop trains might have to pass.

Expect Attack on Suez

London reports that Prime Minister Churchill was seeking quick United States help in stabilizing the Mediterranean front were taken to indicate that the British believed a tremendous German drive against Suez was impending, if not already under way.

As for the Pacific, word from China that the Japanese were preparing a blow against Siberia was being taken with increasing seriousness.

The exploratory Japanese sallies against the Aleutians, it was said, might well have been made primarily to establish reconnaissance bases. These bases would be used to send word of any large-scale American convoys bearing aid for the Red armies in Siberia.

Observers assessing the world military situation saw American production power slowly tipping the scales in any long range view of the war. They believed the axis, therefore, would try for a quick victory.

The immediate task of the president and the prime minister was

Illinois Uncovers 9,000 Tons Rubber

Chicago, June 20.—(AP)—Collection of scrap rubber in Illinois totaled nearly 9,000 tons in the first four days of the nationwide campaign, Maj. Raymond J. Kelly, director of the Sixth Civilian Defense region announced.

Kelly said that in Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, in the region, approximately 20,000 tons of scrap rubber had been collected—6,000 tons in the Badger state and 5,000 tons in Michigan. About 5,000 tons were collected outside of the Chicago metropolitan area in Illinois.

The 16-day drive to gather the scrap rubber will end on June 30. Tuscola, Ill., June 20.—(AP)—Tuscola's scrap rubber pile was high today, thanks to Mrs. Kenneth Hinkle's huge contribution. Mrs. Hinkle gave 4,520 pounds of old rubber boots and overshoes, which were taken to a service station from a junk yard formerly operated by her late husband.

Somewhere in California, June 20.—(AP)—They worked their way up from the ground—literally these flying sergeants, but they are rated by their officers as among the army air forces' finest personnel.

They're members of the army's first class of enlisted pilots in World War II, and they man the P-38 interceptors, those twin-fuselage streaks of mechanical lightning which are waiting and ready to meet any air attacks on this coast.

Chicagoan Admits Being Spy at His Trial Late Friday

Hartford, Conn., June 20.—(AP)—A scar-faced, admitted German, Dr. Otto Willumeit of Chicago, is guilty, he admits, of having conspired to furnish the German and Japanese governments information about the United States Army, Navy and American war industries.

The former official of the German-American Bund pleaded guilty in federal court late yesterday to a charge of conspiracy to violate the 1917 espionage act which carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison.

He and Anastase Vonsiatsky of Thompson, Conn., head of the Russian National Revolutionary Fascist Party; Dr. Wolfgang Ebbe of El Paso, Tex., who arrived here yesterday in custody of a federal marshal; and Kurt Molzahn of Philadelphia were indicted by a federal grand jury June 10.

Plea Continued
Dr. Ebbe also was brought to court yesterday, but Judge J. Joseph Smith, informed that the accused was without funds, said the plea would be continued until counsel is appointed.

Sentence of Dr. Willumeit, head of the Chicago division of the Bund and president of the Teutonia Publishing Co., publishers of the Bund journal, "Free America" was deferred until after the trial of his co-defendants. He was remanded to jail.

The grand jury, which began sitting in May after a federal raid on Vonsiatsky's estate in Thompson, charged in its indictment that Vonsiatsky, Dr. Willumeit and Kunze made arrangements at a Chicago meeting in

Gov. Heil of Wisconsin Announces Candidacy

Milwaukee, June 20.—(AP)—Governor Julius P. Heil late yesterday made his expected formal announcement that he would be a candidate for a third term.

"It is with a deep feeling of patriotism and a full realization of the responsibilities of the job that I announce my candidacy for re-election to the office of governor of the state of Wisconsin on the Republican ticket," his statement said.

"I have worked sincerely and honestly for the best interests of all the people of Wisconsin, and if re-elected, I shall continue to carry on to the best of my ability during this critical period in the affairs of our great state."

Army Bomber Crashes At Springfield Airport

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—(AP)—An Army B-25 medium bombing plane crashed this morning during a takeoff from the Springfield airport but Craig Isbell, airport manager, said that members of the crew suffered only "a few cuts and scratches."

One of the plane's two motors failed as the ship was gaining speed on the ground and the ship crashed into a railway embankment on the end of the field, Isbell said.

Names of the pilot and crew members were not available immediately. The plane landed at the airport last night.

MacArthur Fliers Hit Jap Transport

Allied Headquarters, Australia, June 20.—(AP)—A strong force of allied bombers scored three direct hits yesterday on a 10,000-ton Japanese transport and probably damaged other ships in the harbor at Rabaul, New Britain, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

In addition, the allied fliers attacked the Rabaul airfield, destroying several Japanese bombers on the ground and damaging buildings, said the communique. The raid was made "in heavy strength," the bulletin added.

Lieut. Paul G. Brown, 25-year-old pilot of Oak Park, Ill., told meanwhile how in operations in New Guinea he destroyed three Japanese planes within a month after being forced down himself the first day he went into action.

In his first fight he picked out one of a group of three Zero fighters, attacked it with his cannon and saw it "burst into a million pieces." The next day he went after another Zero, but got too close. His left wing chopped off the Zero's rudder and the enemy plane crashed to earth. In the third fight, he attacked a bomber from a group of 16 and saw it explode on the way down.

Tremendous Drive Against Suez Area Soon Is Indicated

Situation Shaping Into Race of Time Between Contenders

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor
British dispatches said today that Adolf Hitler, apparently bent on a full-scale invasion of the Middle East, had urgently requested France's pro-Nazi Premier Laval to cede 1,000,000 tons of French merchant shipping in the Mediterranean to Germany.

Other developments indicated strongly that the great battles of this summer were to be fought in the ancient lands of Egypt, Iraq, Iran (Persia) and possibly Turkey.

That would be Hitler's choice of a second front. Safely away from his own reichland it still affords him a battleground more accessible to his sources of supply than it does the allies, whose supply ships either must run the gauntlet of axis sea and air attacks in the Mediterranean or use the longer route around Africa and to Cairo.

Predicts Big Attack

However, Sir Stafford Cripps, Prime Minister Churchill's deputy in the House of Commons, declared bluntly that Britain and the United States would launch a great, successful attack on Hitler in the west when the proper time comes.

"We cannot say when the attack will come," Sir Stafford said in London, addressing a meeting observing the June 22 Nazi invasion of Russia.

"I am not going to help Hitler by telling you or him the time," he said, adding:

Offensive Impending

Balancing Cripps' statement against reports of a vast Nazi offensive impending in the Middle East, the situation appeared to be shaping into a race of time to see which side would strike first and force the locale of battle.

In Washington, London reports that Prime Minister Churchill was seeking quick United States help in the Mediterranean theater were taken to indicate that the British believed a tremendous German drive against Suez was impending.

While British North African armies girded for the defense of Egypt, Hitler's field headquarters announced that "the destruction of Sevastopol continues" amid heavy fighting around a northern fort of the big Crimean naval base.

With Sevastopol out of the way, Hitler would be in a position to send his armies into the oil-rich Caucasus and down that land bridge to the Middle East in a thrust synchronized with one eastward against Egypt and the Suez.

Danger Is Great

A BBC broadcast quoted its Moscow correspondent as saying "the Germans have reached a high road leading to Sevastopol... the danger is very great."

The correspondent said Nazi shock troops had cut a wedge pointing dangerously at the heart of the city and were attacking furiously despite an estimated toll of 40,000 killed in the last 16 days.

While Britons at home clamored for an "inquest" into the grave but not necessarily disastrous defeat of the British armies around Tobruk, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck hastily mustered his forces to com-

NOW IS TIME TO REPAIR HOME

Simple Modernizing Will Restore Old
Residence

There are few homes that cannot be improved through some alteration or repair job. The average house could be made much more livable by certain changes. In many cases, serious damage can be averted only by immediate repairing.

The mere removal of useless ornaments often gives an entirely new appearance to an old house.

A slight alteration in the roof line, a new and more effective chimney, an old porch converted into a conservatory, or a new wing to provide additional space, is often all that is necessary to give the home a modernized appearance.

Check Roof Metal

When the roof covering, flashings, gutters or downspouts fail, serious damage to the interior results. They should be checked before winter weather makes arduous demands upon them.

Insulation of side walls and roof might also be done at this time. Windows and doors should be weatherstripped for added comfort and fuel economy, and inefficient windows and doors repaired or replaced. Casement window or French doors may add greatly to the aspect of both exterior and interior. Shutters often improve the appearance of the exterior.

The outer walls may require only a new coat of paint to put them in tip-top condition. Any loose clapboards or shingles must be tightened or replaced first, and the painting should be done before freezing weather. Some walls may be greatly improved with a new siding of clapboard, shingles or masonry. Any cracks in masonry side walls or foundation should be sealed, and the wood sills made termite-proof with concrete or metal.

Repair Porches

Repairs to porch floors, columns, railings, steps and supports will minimize the danger of personal injury and add to the exterior appearance. If the porch is out-of-date, it may be altered, converted into a room or removed. If inadequate, it may be enlarged.

Partitions, preferably of fire proof material, built around the furnace and coal bins will render the rest of the basement more useful for laundry, food storage, workshop or recreation purposes. Brightly painted and well-equipped with shelves and built-in tables, the basement will become a more pleasant place in which to work. Additional windows will add to the appearance and utility and a new outside entrance will add to the appearance and help to keep dust from the upstairs rooms. If a basement is lacking, one may be dug, concreted and finished according to the above suggestions.

General improvements upstairs might include new floors and trim, a fireplace, book and knick-knack shelves, window seats, radiator covers, wallpaper or paint, and an expansion of the electrical system. New partitions or the removal of old ones often adds to the utility of a house. If additional closets are needed, they may be built in corners. A large, unused closet may be trans-

GATES AND FENCES HELP APPEARANCE OF GROUNDS

In modernizing your home it is often found that by adding a few well considered changes here and there the exterior appearance of the house and grounds can be greatly changed for the better. Walls, fences and gates are simple and practical methods of improving the home and grounds.

Try adding a picket or plain board fence around the property, connecting up with the house—not too high (about 30 inches is a good height)—and where needed have the carpenter make a gate of an interesting design.

White picket fences and picket gates always go well with the colonial or frame style, while in a brick or English style house a fence of wide stained boards with an interestingly designed gate lends much attraction to the property. The boards may be of varying widths set tight together with a narrow space between, say from one-quarter inch to three-quarters inch apart. Or they may be all the same width. Possibly the tops may be shaped or cutouts between the boards resorted to for variety.

The gates illustrated are well adapted to the latter sort of fence. They are easily made of wide planks and should be stained or gray painted.

A crowd of German airmen arrived at the gate of heaven and clamored to get in.
"Who are you?" asked St. Peter.

"We're the 50 German airmen who were shot down today by the R. A. F.," was the reply.
Said St. Peter: "Wait a minute while I look at the DNE communique."

After reading it he came back and announced:
"It says here that only two German airmen were shot down today. So two of you can come in and the rest of you can go to hell."

Trellises for arbors, wells, fences and to disguise clothes poles are all good ideas that you can use around your home. They all add an extra touch that shows good taste by the home owner.

Speaking of blankets—for a real blanket against the heat insulate your home with Quality Insulation. It will cut down room temperatures now and also save you plenty of money on fuel bills next winter.

An oyster met an oyster. And they were oysters two. Two oysters met two oysters. And they were oysters, too. Four oysters met in a pint of milk And they were oysters stew.

It is kind of funny that ministers object to games of chance, when they spend so much time performing marriages.

PICKET FENCE FOR THE YARD

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hey who have just moved into their new home at 1318 West First street within the last year are still working on their landscape improvements. Mr. Hey just purchased some white picket lawn fence from our store room the other day and plans soon to erect it in their yard. This, we think, will add just about the final touch and we wish to congratulate them on the fine appearance of their new residence.

MARY JANE LAMBERT AND GEORGE CAIN ARE WED AT ST. PATRICKS RECTORY

Only the immediate families of the bridal pair and a few close friends were present this morning when Miss Mary Jane Lambert, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glade E. Lambert of 816 Fourth street, exchanged marriage vows with George Robert Cain, only child of the L. H. Cains of 833 North Brinton avenue, at the rectory of St. Patrick's Catholic church. The 10 o'clock ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father T. L. Walsh. Miss Doreen Lambert was her sister's only attendant, and Jack Little served George as best man.

With her two-piece suit of powder blue, the bride was wearing a wide-brimmed hat of blue felt, with white accessories. Her flowers were white gladiolus, and stephanotis, fringed with blue forget-me-nots. Her pearl necklace was her bridegroom's gift, and the cameo ring she wore belonged to his paternal grandmother.

Darleen chose a street dress of dusty rose, with a picture hat of white straw. Her corsage contained blue delphinium and baby's breath.

Both Mrs. Lambert and Mrs. Cain, the bridegroom's mother, were attired in navy blue, with sprays of gardenias at their shoulders.

Breakfast for 16 was served at Peter Piper's following the ceremony. Blue delphinium and white gladiolus were the centerpiece on the table, and the three-tiered cake was decorated with blue rosebuds.

Later, Mr. Cain and his bride were motoring north on a week's wedding trip.

Today's bride was graduated from Dixon high school in 1938, and has been employed in the statistical department of the Illinois Northern Utilities company for the past two years.

Mr. Cain, a graduate of Canyon City, Colo. high school, is also an alumnus of the University of Colorado, where he received a bachelor of science degree in business accounting in 1938. Sigma Nu is his fraternity. At present, he is with the Lybrand, Ross Brothers, and Montgomery public accounting company in Rockford.

Witnessing the vows this morning, besides the parents of the bridal pair, were Mr. and Mrs. John Burke of Belvidere; Mrs. Allie Woods of Mattoon, the bridegroom's grandmother; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burke and daughter, Mary Lucille, Mr. and Mrs. James Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Eastman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gardner and children Lois and John, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Little, and the Misses Anna Marie Crabtree, Jean Ford, and Joan Hooker.

Anna Marie Devine Is Shower Honoree

Women employees of the Utilities office in Sterling entertained Thursday evening with a pre-nuptial shower for Miss Anna Marie Devine, fiancée of John Lewis Moore, an aviation cadet at Mission, Tex. The party-goers were invited to the country home of Miss Helen Friedrichs, east of Sterling, for an evening of 500, with Katherine Winkler, Joan Long, and Helen O'Connell receiving favors.

Blue and white, Miss Devine's chosen colors, appointed the dining room table for a dessert course. Suspended from the chandelier above the table was a miniature aeroplane, decorated in red, white and blue, and a banner reading: "Three cheers for Lewis. Keep them flying for our own red, white and blue." Corsages of red, white and blue flowers were favors.

Later in the evening, Miss Devine was named as leader for a treasure hunt. A cord tied to her chair guided the way to the honoree's gift packages, concealed in the living room.

Miss Devine is the eldest daughter of the E. J. Devines of Sterling, and has been an employee of the Illinois Northern Utilities company of Sterling for the past two years. Her marriage to Cadet Moore is to be solemnized Saturday, July 4th, at St. Mary's church in Sterling. Mrs. Worthington Thomas was the nuptial musician. She played the wedding march, and accompanied Mrs. Delbert Schell, who sang the Lutheran marriage hymn.

Mrs. George Ray was matron of honor for her former schoolmate, Edward Davis of Evanston, college classmate of the bridegroom, served as best man. The bride's brothers, Ward and Bryant Zimmerman, ushered the guests to their places.

The bride wore an afternoon dress of powder blue, with navy accessories, and a corsage of white roses. Her matron of honor was attired in navy blue, accented by a shoulder bouquet of pink roses.

Following a reception at the Zimmerman home, the bridal pair left for Boston, where the bridegroom is stationed with the navy as a Storekeeper, Third class.

Mrs. Baldwin was graduated from Mount Morris high school in 1937. ## Gay 90's Style Stages a Comeback in the low countries and France, in the Balkans—and it was so on June 22, 1941, when the Nazi armies began their sweep into Russia. Yet since the late fall of 1941 the German air force has not been engaged in any mass operations as the allies have come to know them.

Why neck wear makes fashion news this summer can be seen in this smart quilted collar and cuffs, with unusual notched revers. The idea of quilting idea was adapted from the 19th century Norman cap at lower right.

Air Force Spread Out

True, the Nazis have had to spread their air strength over many fronts: To guard against British raids in the west (but lately with surprisingly weak forces); to aid the Italians over the Mediterranean and Libya (there have been signs the proportion of Nazi aircraft in these operations was reduced considerably in recent months); to support their troops on the vast Russian front (even here there have been few attacks in force, and this week's Nazi-announced raid on Moscow was the first on the capital for many weeks).

Expert opinion attributes the Germans' comparatively minor air activity to two reasons: The Nazis have to conserve their supplies of lubricating oil for their planes; the air force therefore will not be thrown into any major operation, with its additional heavy drain on airmen and equipment, until Hitler has decided where the army will strike its next blow.

Logical Conclusions

From those points you can build up this sequence:

1. The German air force cannot afford to waste fuel;
2. If it is called on for action in which large stocks of fuel are to be used, the natural goal of such an action would be acquisition of fresh supplies;
3. The most logical point of major air attack, therefore, is in support of the long-awaited drive for Russia's Caucasian oil fields.

There is ample justification for the belief that, both in machines and in the men to fly and repair them, the German force has been strengthened considerably.

Furthermore, with their interior lines of communications, the Nazis can concentrate their air force in any chosen sector within the space of a few days. They can do so, that is, at least in theory.

A Thought for Today

Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time.—1 Peter 5:6.

God hath sworn to lift on high who sinks himself by true humility.—Kebler.

To German Fathers

The 21st day of June, 1942, is a day of deep and varied significances.

At 17 minutes after 8 in the evening, summer arrives formally. Previously, however, the passing of midnight of June 20 ushers in Father's Day in the United States.

It seems fitting, then, that the fathers of America, on their day, should send greetings to the fathers of Germany, along these lines:

We're sorry for you fellows, a little, but we can't grieve too much. You, and you only, are responsible for the sons you have lost and the sons you have yet to lose in western Europe, in Africa, on the high seas, over Britain, and most disastrously in Russia.

While we devoted ourselves to the ways of peace, you spent your time and substance making guns and tanks, warplanes and bombs.

While we were asserting and exercising the right of free men to govern themselves, you permitted a warped-minded egomaniac to control your every action and most of your thoughts.

While we defended the right of every person to worship his own God in his own way, you protested only ineffectually when your fuhrer closed churches, persecuted your clergy, and led you backward toward the paganism of your race's darkest ages.

While we strove to make racial bigotry a stench in the nostrils of decent men, you stood by cravenly at best—and co-operated actively at worst—while a race from which Germany had drawn much of the best of her culture was maltreated brutally.

This, fathers of Germany, is not alone the first day of summer and the day dedicated to the fatherhood of democratic America.

This also is the anniversary of the occasion when your despotic fuhrer turned treacherously upon his Russian ally, and plunged you and your sons into an unnecessary adventure from which there can be no return until your place in the international sun has been destroyed.

Today, fathers of Germany, ponder on the sons who lie in unmarked graves somewhere in Russia, because you failed in your duty toward them and permitted Adolf Hitler to do with you as his diseased mind suggested.

Think of your sons who will live, maimed, shattered in body and mind and soul, because you were not men enough to stop Hitler when you discovered the evil thing he is.

Think of the fatherless sons of other men—of your own sons, who will become fatherless as you die at the whim of Adolf Hitler.

To you, fathers of Germany, we extend sympathy—a little—since we, too, are fathers.

How One War Collapsed

Napoleon invaded Russia in 1812 with 600,000 soldiers. He marched all the way to Moscow with only one serious battle on the trip. He entered Moscow and found the place deserted except for a few stragglers and others who failed to depart soon enough. Napoleon's soldiers fell to looting, and acquired large collections of rugs, furs and other valuables, including money.

After remaining in Moscow several weeks with nothing to do and no one to fight against, the Corsican and his aides lost their nerve. They decided there was nothing to do but go home. They couldn't conquer an enemy they couldn't see.

Progress homeward was impeded by the necessity of carrying the loot. Winter set in. The army's flanks were harassed constantly by guerrillas. Between the cold and Russian bullets, Napoleon lost practically his whole army—some estimates saying he reached Paris with less than 6,000 of his grand invasion force.

Books have been written about what might have happened had the little corporal made a sudden drive at St. Petersburg; or if he had turned south into the warmer parts where his army could have been sustained. The books are useless because they are based on the Napoleon that might have existed instead of upon the Napoleon who actually led the armies.

As we are able to see it today, the Russian invasion by Napoleon and that by Hitler are not parallel. Napoleon marched along a single road with a column of men, expecting to see the enemy's army, engage it traditionally and fight it out—winner take all. The Russians wouldn't play ball, however. When Napoleon had reached Moscow he was no closer to victory than if he had sat in Paris.

In the present war, Hitler's armies stretch from Sevastopol to Leningrad. If he takes Moscow, that is only an incident, and possibly of doubtful value. If he takes Leningrad (the old St. Petersburg) the town itself would be of little value. The cutting of a rail line would be more harmful to the Russians. Military values have changed. Resources count for more than capitals. Hitler and Napoleon are parallels only in ambition.

We Hope

The visits of Vyacheslav M. Molotov to London and Washington were the best guarded secrets since Jimmy Doolittle blasted Tokyo. No hint, so far as we know, leaked out.

We hope that the similarity will end there. We hope that newsmen will not be twitted because the governments' secret was well kept, as was the case when almost every correspondent who ascertained the identity of the Tokyo bombing leader played the game and didn't tell.

Nevertheless, as insurance, let it be recorded that newspapermen did know, and didn't tell, and that their restraint was dictated by patriotism; that they were not a group of zany who can properly be held up to light ridicule at some future press conference.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc., Reproduction in Whole or in Part Strictly Prohibited.)

Washington, June 19.—Current suspicions that the British granted a secret clause in their treaty with Russia, promising Stalin all the territory he wanted, cannot be true in view of the inside manner in which the treaty developed.

The still mysterious visit of Lord Beaverbrook to Washington two months or more ago was concerned with this matter. He came over to sound Roosevelt out on the Soviet proposition.

His soundings must have been faulty, for he returned to London with the mistaken notion that Roosevelt would accept such a grant of territory.

When Foreign Commissar Molotov arrived in London a treaty was actually drawn by the British providing for such a post-war settlement.

But when news of it reached Washington, the mistake of Beaverbrook was officially corrected. This government put its foot down firmly against making any advance territorial commitments of any kind. It could not do otherwise.

The British thereupon tore up the territorial draft, and offered the Russians instead the twenty-year mutual defense pact which Molotov was glad to negotiate.

This unofficial explanation of the matter coincides fully with the official statement of Anthony Eden to Parliament, and the White Paper issued by the British, both of which were flat, airtight denials that the treaty meant more than it said.

The Chinese think Jap seizure of some of our Aleutian islands forecasts a Jap attack on Russia. Recent Chungking advices assume that the Japs wanted to be able to intercept any American bomber aid or trans-Pacific surface aid to Russia. That is about the only military good the Japs could get out of these islands.

No one here professes to know what the acrobatic statesmen of Japan will try next. But with their sea striking force of aircraft carriers gone, there seems nothing for them to do except to sink their teeth deeper into China and try a land attack on the Reds.

The War Production Board has done its work so well, it is working itself out of business. Another reorganization is in the making. In about 30 days, Chairman Nelson will issue a directive which will take cognizance of the changed functions, coming about gradually now as plants have been completed, changed over, contracts let, etc.

Both the production and purchasing divisions have been working in the Army and Navy departments already and their functions will be gradually shifted over. The industrial operations division will be shaken down as there seems to be no need now for refrigerator, washing machine committees and the like.

The whole organization will assume the character of an advisory agency rather than an administrative bureau.

Nelson, the man who did the job, apparently intends to remain in control, although it has never been officially agreed by the War and Navy departments that his executive order gave him power over them.

The single-headed centralized authority certainly straightened out the mess in production with such outstanding success as to invite the adoption of a similar system for the rubber and gas mess, possibly under Nelson.

Congressmen, always trying to read political trends, are having some difficulty interpreting the primaries this far.

A strong supporter of FDR's foreign policy (Luther Patrick) was defeated by Democrats in Alabama, while a Maine Republican isolationist (Rep. James Oliver) was defeated by Republicans there.

Iowa Republicans defeated a Willie man, and Illinois Republicans renominated an isolationist ("Curley" Brooks) who wisely said "all foreign policy controversy is dead since Pearl Harbor."

But an overwhelming majority of those who have faced the primaries so far have been renominated.

Petroleum Coordinator and Interior Secretary Ickes has begun in a modest way to straighten out his career. In a speech to the Motor Freight Association, June 11, he recalled with horror that he had made a speech to the American Automobile Association in 1939, saying:

"I have promised some day to give myself the pleasure of driving down a truck-infested road in the biggest armored tank that I can find and bumping those pests off the road."

He apologized, saying he did not know how he could have been so wrong as to underestimate the value of motor transport. Earlier

War Brings Change in Traveling Habit of Governor Green

But Illinois' Executive Makes More Appearances Than Predecessors

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—(AP)—The war has changed his traveling habits, but Governor Green still fills more speaking engagements and makes more public appearances than any recent Illinois chief executive.

The governor, who complains that he never could sleep in a Pullman, now travels frequently by train. When he drives, he slows down. When he is in a hurry, he occasionally flies in a state-owned plane.

In the pre-rubber shortage days he got around the state mostly by automobile, even on long night drives when he might have been expected to travel by train.

Green usually makes between 15 and 20 scheduled addresses each month at public and semi-public gatherings. In one recent stretch of nine days he made eleven.

These engagements take him often to Chicago and to cities and towns all over the state. He spoke during May, for example, before a half-dozen conventions, several church groups, business clubs, two college commencements, and at a hospital dedication. Between times he helped welcome a caravan of movie stars in Chicago and made a couple of radio talks. Frequently he accepts out-of-state speaking invitations.

Always Drives Slowly

When he takes to the air the governor uses a four-seated, medium-size plane owned by the State Aeronautics Commission and piloted by George Roberts, the commission's executive secretary. Sometimes the governor takes the controls himself, having learned about planes as an air corps instructor in the first World War.

His constant traveling companion is his secretary, John W. Chapman. On motor trips he sometimes takes a state department director along to talk over administrative problems.

On the highway the big black sedan bearing official Illinois license plate No. 1 is often passed up these days by other faster-moving cars. The reason is that the governor has ordered his driver, Capt. Everett Van Diver to hold down to 40 or 45 miles an hour, even though a 200-mile trip between Chicago and Springfield now takes six hours where it formerly took only three and a half.

That is the speed which the governor has urged other motorists to observe for the sake of tire conservation. His intimates say he maintains it too.

Every headline that tells of a petroleum tankship sunk means that nearly 100,000 passenger cars, or 35,000 domestic oil burners have to find some other transportation means for their fuel. Each tankship carries 63,000,000 gallons annually.

The jellyfish is almost pure water, being composed of 99 1/2 per cent water.

he even made a speech defending congress.

Ickes is apparently working his way back to correct every speech he ever made up to these last two. If he goes through with it he will wind up on the right side of every question.

Special locking devices have been invented to protect automobile tires from theft. Locks are attached to the hubs of wheels, thereby deterring thieves who rarely can afford to take the time to deflate and remove the tires from the rims.

SOMETHING WORTH KNOWING

DENIES DRINKERS IMMORAL

Dr. Britt contends that heavy drinkers are generally not immoral but amoral. Persons drink for many emotional reasons, either because they are shy and wish to narcotize their conflict, for social reasons, to overcome fear, to create a sense of well being, to dodge the problems of life, or because they need alcohol chemically in their system, he stated.

"Regular use of alcohol does bring about an insidious change in the personality of an individual. He is usually able to carry on his ordinary work sufficiently well to make a fair appearance to the casual observer, but he never reaches a high pitch of energy or efficiency and his history is one of gradual deterioration both moral and intellectual. Regular drinking usually causes, in time destructive changes within the nervous system and a dementia of the organic type as a natural consequence."

OUT ON BAIL

CHAPTER X

HUNTER DENT gawped at Sheriff Anderson. "What do you mean, Sheriff—burn out the seat of my pants? What is all this, anyway?"

Anderson, grinning, unlocked the cell door. "Come along. You'll know all in good time."

Hunter followed the officer a block along the side street to the court house. In a few moments they were with Judge Elkins.

"Young man," Judge Elkins said, "you are free. Go your way."

"What—what do you mean?"

"Your bond has been posted, and until your case comes up for trial you may come and go as you please."

"But—who went on my bond, Judge Elkins?" Hunter still was dazed.

"Your bondsman wishes to remain anonymous. You are dismissed."

"Well, what do you know?" Hunter said wonderingly as he went out into the free, open sunshine. He stared all about, at the sky, the trees, the busy little city.

From the newspaper Hunter had the place where the girl, Sally Kiker, lived. He was remembering something about Sally, too. When he had first read the name it was oddly familiar to him. Then he remembered, Sally Kiker was Sam Doolittle's girl. Sam was the son of Squire Doolittle, the constable and owner of the little store out Hunter's way. Hunter and Doolittle were good friends; and it was more than likely that Sam Doolittle was the escort Sally had so far shielded. It was a lead worth following.

HUNTER made his way there. Once past the bad corner the street became somewhat better and Hunter knocked at the door of a small but neat house of recent FHA vintage. Sally herself came to the door. She was a buxom girl, with a milkmaid freshness; she was the authentic thing, instead of the synthetic type that Red Ballard had been.

"Good morning. This is Hunter Dent, from the Ballard Estates. You are Miss Kiker? May I come in a few moments? I wanted to talk with you about the bank-messenger matter." He added quickly, seeing the swift hostile change that came upon her. "I happen to have been put in jail charged with that murder, Miss Kiker. I'm out on bond now. I had no more to do with that unfortunate matter than you did. I have to find out all I can about it, because my case will come up at the winter session of criminal court, and—well, you can see how it is with me." He smiled, his best smile. "I know Sam Doolittle," he added. "I know his father very well."

"Well, Mr. Dent!" she smiled. She had read about him in the paper, as he had about her. They talked of the Doolittles, father and son. "If you'll call Mr. Doolittle and ask about me I am sure you will feel free to help me. What I wanted was for you to tell me exactly what you saw the other night; better still, go with me and let us go over the ground together."

"As soon as I can change my dress," she said.

He heard her telephoning Doolittle's store. When she reappeared she was cordial. Hunter found her one of those people who seem all ways to have known. They walked up the street to the corner. Crossing to the east side, they stopped at a dark doorway which led into the stairs mounting to the top of the unpainted frame vacant store here.

"If I tell you who was with me you won't give me away?" she asked.

"I've already guessed it was Sam. Go ahead—I don't know, so you're safe."

"Well, the other night we were coming from the picture show uptown. This is a pretty bad part of town—you know that. We heard somebody coming along. Sam pulled me in the door here. He has a milk route and he knows what a wicked spot it is. We saw a young fellow come past. He was walking fast. He carried something under his arm. His hat was pulled down over his face, so we couldn't tell anything about him much. He had dark clothes and maybe a colored shirt. He looked clean. Sam thought he had his hand in his coat pocket as if on a gun. You know how they keep them ready. I couldn't tell, myself."

"Just as we were about to come out and start off again, here came somebody running like everything. We jerked back in here. This time I saw a good-looking young man all dressed up. Had on a silk hat and tails, and I saw the pistol in his hand. He was yelling at the one ahead to halt and stick 'em up—you know how they do those things. Then it just happened so fast you couldn't make heads nor tails of it. Shooting and yelling and when I looked out, like this—from right here," and she stood so she peered around the edge of the door facing, at an angle across the street, "I saw two other men. They seemed to come from around the corner of the pressing shop there, or maybe they could have been hiding in that stairway yonder."

"You know, though, there were two?" Hunter said.

"I'm sure," she said. "What did they look like?"

"Well, the street light here is so sorry I couldn't tell, very well. Besides, they were under the awning there, and you couldn't see much."

"Would you say they were just about of a size, and kind of sleek like, and maybe a little under average height?"

She nodded, adding, "And dressed in dark, too. They looked almost dirty. But they were not. They were fixing the street, there—putting down fresh tar and gravel. There was a long plank on barrels across the street, and these kerosene flares. Well, the shooting started and I was so scared I didn't know which way was straight up. All I seem to remember was the dressed-up young man running out of sight that way," she pointed down the side street, toward the river road.

"He must have had a car down there somewhere. I heard it when it went off with a big roar. And that's all I can remember. Sam and I ran. We saw the man lying in the street, where he had been shot and killed. I thought I'd never have known I was about. Well, that's the way of it."

HUNTER took her home, and went back uptown. He took a taxi to the hospital and was allowed to visit Junior a moment. The boy grinned at him wanly. He was still too weak to talk. As he went out on the street, Red came up in her car. She was the very person Hunter wanted to see, though he just thought of it.

"Did you go my bail, Red?" he demanded.

"If you must know, and I suppose you must, it was Hank Temple's father, at the bank."

"Red, I've been over that ground down there, and I have a theory. The boy grinned at him wanly. He was still too weak to talk. As he went out on the street, Red came up in her car. She was the very person Hunter wanted to see, though he just thought of it.

"Did you go my bail, Red?" he demanded.

Large Number of State Employees In Armed Services

Many Officials Have Also Been Called or Have Enlisted

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—The state government, like private business, is losing many of its officials and employees to the war.

Several hundred of the younger payrollers have been drafted or have enlisted. Dozens of older men with specialized training—such as highway engineers, public health doctors and trained accountants—are serving as officers or are on duty with new federal agencies.

The legislative branch of the government, too, has some of its men in the army. Senator Elmer H. Droste (R-Mt. Olive) appeared at the last session of the legislature in the uniform of a tank officer major and Rep. Homer Kasseman (D-Newton) reported for duty recently as a captain in the quartermaster corps.

Highway Division Leads

The highway division leads all other state government agencies in the loss of trained personnel with 96 highway engineers in active service—most of them in the engineering corps. Twenty-two state policemen are on leave of absence for military duty; seven doctors have left key positions in the health department for the medical corps, and five managing officers of state institutions also are in the military services.

The expanding office of Price Administration has taken three key state officials in civilian capacities. John C. Weigel, former fiscal supervisor and administrative assistant in the public welfare department, was appointed midwestern regional director of the OPA and was followed by Fletcher Kettle, superintendent of the division of public assistance, and Carter Jenkins, chief of the division of waterways and coordinator for the state defense council. Jenkins was named Illinois OPA director.

Dr. Thorne Deuel, chief of the state museum and a graduate of West Point, has re-entered the army as a major in the air forces. Amos Richardson of Edinburg, executive secretary to Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, is serving as a lieutenant colonel at sixth corps area headquarters.

James H. Douglas, Jr., of Chicago, former vice chairman of the Illinois Public Aid Commission, is now a major in the army air forces, continuing as a member of the IPAC although he is a special assistant in the War Production Board's division of industry operation.

Seven assistant attorneys general and Attorney General George F. Barrett's secretary, John T. Kincaid, Jr., of Charleston, have resigned to enter the army or navy. The assistants are George E. Q. Johnson, Jr., and Floyd L. Benson, both of Chicago; Ben F. Rallsback, Clinton; Glenn A. Prevost, Moline; James E. Bales, Dixon; R. G. Ottesen, Chester, and Whedon State, Bloomington.

S. L. Workman, assistant to Finance Director George B. McKibbin and Republican nominee for Cook county treasurer, has announced plans to resign his state post and withdraw as a candidate to enter the army quartermaster corps.

The state civil service commission's executive officer, Charles A. Adams of Springfield, is serving as a lieutenant in the army air forces. Col. Clay M. Donner, former assistant state adjutant general, is now on army duty assigned as assistant state director of selective service.

Managing officers of state institutions now on active duty include Dr. Walter H. Baer, Mather State hospital; Dr. George Wiltrakis, Peoria State hospital; Dr. Joseph S. Drabanski, Chicago State hospital; Dr. W. W. Fox, Lincoln State school and colony; and Howard Russell, soldiers and sailors children's home at normal.

Public Health Men

Public health department doctors on military leaves include Arnold M. Cohn, Chicago, district superintendent; Harry S. Fein, Chicago district supervisor; Dr. Robert E. Hunt, Springfield, field consultant; Charles H. Miller, Moweaqua, district superintendent; Everett J. Olenick, Oak Park, district superintendent; Reno Rosi, Springfield, pneumonia control officer, and John F. Shronts, Woodstock, district superintendent.

Edward Duncan, North Chicago, chief clerk in the state treasurer's office, joined the merchant marine, and John Jarecki of Chicago, head of the secretary of state's security division, also is on a military leave.

Among the highway engineers in military service are Clarence W. Arnold, Chicago; M. P. Boulden, Carbondale; D. A. Branigan, Dixon; R. C. Brewster, Dixon; Ellis Danner, Peoria; Oscar Day, Carbondale; W. E. Gronberg, Elgin; H. A. Hollingshead, Springfield; John G. Keller, Paris; Nelson Leclair, Jr., Princeton; A. B. Litvin, Bradford; Ralph H. Major, Paris; W. O. Moore, Dixon; Arthur P. Mueller, Paris; William H. Phillips, Grafton; Harold C. Poyer, Effingham; E. J. Ralph, Edinburgh; Dewey M. Stowers, Charleston; Milton Van Etten, Chicago; Charles O. Watkins, Watseka.

To Standardize Jobs, Salaries of State Employees

Object Is to Have People Doing Same Work Get Same Pay

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—(AP)—Three agencies have joined in sponsoring a comprehensive study of state government payrolls with a view to standardizing jobs and salaries among the 20,000 employees.

The object is to accomplish, when appropriation bills are enacted by the 1943 legislature, a uniform salary classification plan in which employees doing the same type of work receive the same compensation.

As it is now, stenographers, clerks and many other types of employees receive varying salaries in different departments. A clerk in one office may be paid $125 a month, and another clerk in an adjoining office doing the same kind of work may be receiving $175. In one office, employees listed as clerks are paid all the way from $125 to $525 a month.

Large Pay Discrepancies

The latter is an extreme example, but Finance Director George B. McKibbin said today the discrepancies in pay are such that the Green administration decided to survey the departments it controls. The study does not include employees in the offices of the elected state officials other than the governor.

A 12-month task, the classification study is being conducted by the public administration service, originally endowed by the Spellman fund. Every code department employee received a questionnaire in which he was called upon to describe in detail the nature of his duties.

Representatives of the survey followed up the questionnaires in many cases with personal interviews. The information obtained will be used to place each state position in a specific classification according to its nature. Then, when appropriations are adopted, salary limitations will be fixed based upon length of service in each classification.

Handled by Departments

Under past procedure, every department director has made up his own budget with resultant variance in wage scales.

"Things have just grown up like Topsy," said Director McKibbin. "There never before has been any over-all attempt to classify and standardize positions and salaries."

"We are to find out what everyone in the state service is doing, and we hope to bring about a condition in which people performing the same service received the same salary."

Sponsors frankly doubt that the study will bring about any immediate appropriation reductions, but they believe that in this period of rising living costs it will discourage employee "pressure" for a blanket pay boost when the next appropriations are adopted.

Backed jointly by the finance department, the civil service commission and the budgetary commission of the legislature, the study is being conducted on a cost basis, McKibbin said. He predicted the cost would not exceed $50,000. A staff of ten or more has been engaged in the survey for several months.

"Legally Dead" French Woman Actually Dies

Vichy, France, June 20.—(AP)—Maria Pettjean, the head-eyed "Widow Beckers of Liege," was reported Friday to have died in the Brussels prison where she had been confined since 1936 for the poison murders of 11 persons and attempted poisoning of at least three others.

Legally she had been dead since 1938 when, at 58, she was convicted and sentenced to execution. Actually that meant life imprisonment, for since 1863, when a bystander went insane at sight of an executed man's head rolling from the guillotine, Belgian executions had been only symbolic.

The widow Beckers, as she was known through her sensational trial, was found to have picked as her first victim her own husband and then followed up by killing boarders at her home, mostly wealthy widows.

Her method was to make her intended victims sick by brewing for them "Becker Tea", containing poison, and then continuing the poison doses under the guise of caring for the victims during their illness.

Illinois WPA Rolls Will Be Cut in July

Chicago, June 20.—(AP)—Charles P. Casey, Illinois Works Project Administrator, announced that the WPA rolls would be reduced to an average of 36,250 workers during July, approximately 13,000 below the June average. By July 31, Casey said, the number of WPA workers in Illinois must be reduced to 32,500. The cutting of the number of WPA workers, the administrator said, is in line with passage of a bill in congress lowering the WPA appropriation for the next fiscal year. The measure provides that about 400,000 workers can be carried on the national WPA rolls, a reduction of approximately 40 per cent.

The first permanent French settlement in the New World was founded by Samuel Champlain in 1608.

Tremendous Drive

bat an expected Nazi onslaught toward Egypt.

Simultaneously, the conservative London Times declared that Libya was second front already established, and added:

"Egypt and the Mediterranean have their rightful place in the survey of this decisive year on which the president and the prime minister are engaged."

Nazi Columns Withdraw
Heretofore, mention of a second front in Europe has generally envisaged the use of American troops; but there was no information whether United States forces were now supporting the British in the bitter desert struggle.

British Imperial headquarters said two main axis columns advancing eastward across the Libyan sands had turned back within 35 miles of the Egyptian frontier after a brief fight with British mobile troops.

"The enemy did not press his advance," a British communiqué said, "both enemy columns turning back to the westward."

This implied that the axis vanguards found the British drawn up in greater strength than expected and retired to await reinforcements.

The British reported yesterday they had taken up "strong positions" along the Egyptian-Libyan border, but it was apparent from today's communiqué that they were operating well out from the old battle sectors around Salum and Halfaya ("Hellfire") Pass.

Investigation Asked
While Roosevelt and Churchill met in secret somewhere in the United States—presumably mapping counter blows to developing axis summer offensives in Europe, Asia and Africa—the British press demanded that parliament investigate the reverse at Tobruk.

"The enemy knows why and how he won the battle," declared the London Daily Mail, joining a chorus of criticism. "We have a right to know how we lost it."

"Quite simply and bluntly," said the Evening News, "the reason is that from the beginning we have underestimated the strength, cunning, resources and recuperative power of the enemy."

"We did not believe he could have better tanks than ours, but he did." (The British used many American-built tanks in the latest North African fighting).

"We did not imagine he could have a deadlier anti-tank gun."

"Bitter Lesson"
"The volume of our transport was fantastic but we did not calculate that Rommel's would be even more fantastic. . . . It is a bitter lesson."

But the Russians still drew an optimistic picture of the struggle for the key Black Sea fortress of Sevastopol, declaring officially:

"Our infantrymen, sailors and artillerymen, repelling attacks of the enemy, are delivering ever new blows against them."

In aerial warfare, a "strong force" of RAF bombers, perhaps 250 to 300 planes, blasted the German naval base at Emden and the railway city of Osnabruck last night in the heaviest air smash at Germany in two weeks, the British reported.

Other RAF raiders attacked air-dromes in Nazi-occupied Holland. Nine planes were acknowledged missing.

REPORT FROM CAIRO

Cairo, June 20.—(AP)—Light mobile forces of Lt. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie's 8th army screened hurried dispositions for the defense of Egypt today and two major axis columns were reported to have veered back westward after they were engaged about 25 miles from Bardia.

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's main forces were reported equipped and reorganized for what most informed sources believed would be a gigantic assault on Tobruk, siege-threatened Libyan port 70 miles west of Bardia.

A possibility that Rommel would choose to out-pass Tobruk was ruled out, but military observers said reduction of its fortifications—which the British have held since ousting its Italian garrison in the 1940-41 winter offensive—would enable the African corps' leader to plan its use as a main base in an autumn drive toward the Nile.

Tobruk's garrison already is cut off from overland supplies.

While Rommel is instituting siege preliminaries, his armored forces may be able to tie up the British desert divisions at Salum and other points along the frontier. The two columns newly reported engaged may have been simply on reconnaissance—in force assignments, feeling out the new British alignments.

Black Day Week Ago
The black day for the eighth army was a week ago today, when a strong force of British tanks fell into ambush before 88 millimeter German guns. This changed the course of the Libyan campaign, it was disclosed today.

The British tank force was attacking the German 90th light armored division, which in turn was assaulting the British 50th North Umbrian infantry division. A radioed message told British headquarters of the latter's difficulties.

This may have been a genuine appeal for aid or a decoy sent by the Germans to lure the British into a trap.

The 15th German armored division, made up of heavy tanks, closed in on the British tanks at short range and the 90th withdrew.

Because of inferior armor, the British tank crews sped from the battlefield to avoid the German heavies, pursuing the Nazi light division.

Far along the Capuzzo road Rommel had constructed an ambush of 88s, cleverly camouflaged British tanks, already sandwiched between the guns of light and heavy German divisions, were caught at close range.

Their losses are believed here to have been unusually high.

ANNIVERSARY NEAR
BY J. R. TRIPLETT

The German-Russian conflict, successor to a war of nerves that stirred European observers throughout the spring of 1941, was in the closing hours today of its first bloody year with the battle lines apparently stabilized for the moment. June 22 is the anniversary.

Behind Adolf Hitler's armies are more than 500,000 square miles of soviet territory despite the bitter winter retreat; before them are powerful, reorganized Russian forces which Premier Joseph Stalin has called upon to crush the invaders "in 1942".

Granary loot which Hitler gained from the Ukraine is of unannounced proportions; Caucasian oil is still beyond his grasp.

Rostov, Tula, Kaluga, Mzhaisk, Kalinin and Tikhvin are among scores of towns and villages ravaged by the Red army in the last seven months from the Germans, who once stood 20 miles from Moscow.

Major German bases in the forward areas between the Sea of Azov and the Gulf of Finland form an angular pattern. The lines across Karelia and Lapland are generally fluid and undefined. All the Crimea except battered Sevastopol is in Nazi hands.

The invaders hold the Azov sea port of Taganrog, Stalino, Khar'kov, Kursk and Orel, the latter 200 miles southwest of Moscow, on the saw-toothed southern front.

Eighty miles west-northwest of Orel, their possession of Bryansk seems to be disputed only by guerrillas. Lined up due north of Bryansk are German garrisons at Vyazma, 10 miles west-southwest of Moscow, and Rzhev, on the Volga—which Russian communiques pictured last winter as pocketed by soviet spearheads.

Northwestward across the Valdai hills, the Germans apparently still hold the Lake Ilma cities of Staraya Russa and Novgorod despite prolonged Russian operations against them. About 100 miles above Novgorod are the Nazi entrenchments before Leningrad.

The speakers included Rae Arnold, Sterling D. Schrock, Gerald Jones, Edward A. Jones, J. M. Brady, and Cal G. Tyler.

Pupils receiving the awards and those making the presentations included: Loveland school—Robert Dennison and Betty Barton, presented by Sterling D. ten before the Japanese attack, were amazingly prophetic and accurate. Asked if the enemy had signed out his plan for destruction, Romulo replied:

"I don't grant them that much marksmanship."

He was assigned to General MacArthur's staff at the outbreak of war, and remained with the American-Filipino forces on Batavia until all hope of organized resistance to the Japanese was gone.

Romulo praised the United States colonial policy in the Philippines, as shown by the Tydings-McDuffie act which grants the islands complete independence in 1946.

He said this policy has shown the world it is the only colonial policy which can win a subject peoples' loyalty.

"Bataan and Corregidor will stand forever as evidence of that loyalty to the United States," he declared.

"Filipinos are still fighting the Japs and will continue to fight. Women of the islands also are fighting. When the Japs went to Cebu and entered Filipino towns and homes, women took up guns and shot them."

ASKS FOR RULING

President Carl Hasselberg of the Northern Illinois Horse Show Association today appealed to Joseph E. Eastman, director of Defense Transportation at Washington, for a ruling on the holding of fairs and horse shows in four mid-western states during the summer months. In a press dispatch Friday, Director Eastman was quoted as having requested all state and county fairs be cancelled for the duration to conserve tires.

The Northern Illinois Horse Show Association is composed of members in northern Illinois, eastern Iowa, southern Wisconsin and western Indiana, who have booked 15 fairs to be held during the summer and early fall months. Each of the fairs has arranged to pay large amounts in premiums of War Bonds and stamps this season, and each showing provides departments for 4-H club, Future Farmers of America projects, as well as varied Farm Bureau activities. The fairs have been in operation for a period of five years, drawing their patronage from a radius not exceeding 50 miles from each location. Hasselberg hopes to receive a ruling within a few days which will determine the fairs in several counties.

Yesterday's published plea may mean the cancellation of the Lee County Fair & Horse Show at Assembly Park, as well as those of several adjoining counties. The local association at a recent meeting decided to take no action until 30 days before the proposed fair date, to await any possible ruling from Washington. The Ogles county association has also chosen to "mark time" in anticipation of just such an order as announced yesterday from Washington. Whiteside, Bureau and LaSalle county fair associations had announced their showings would be held as scheduled.

Illinois Politics Begins to Pep Up

Chicago, June 20.—(AP)—Illinois politicians, looking forward to the November 3 election, are making their opening speeches and arranging for their state conventions.

Republicans will hold their convention at Springfield—Thursday, August 20, in the Elks club. Since the Army has taken over all state armories, the political meetings must be crowded into smaller quarters.

Top-ranking Democrats meanwhile traveled toward Quincy, where their first speeches on wartime issues will be made tonight at a meeting honoring Edward H. Allen, a home-town hero who is the new state chairman of the Democrats.

Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, Democratic nominee for congressman-at-large, is to be one of the Quincy speakers, opening a series of campaign tours designed to extend his downstate acquaintance.

Other Democratic nominees also are to gather at Quincy, the exception being Congressman Raymond S. McKeeough, Chicago, senatorial candidate.

As soon as he can break away from Washington, McKeeough is to join Adamowski in downstate handshaking and speechmaking.

On the Republican side, Senator C. Wayland Brooks, who is up for re-election, and Governor Green will make the major speeches at the Springfield convention, announced Paul C. Rosenquist of Rockford, chairman of the committee on arrangements. Both Rockford and Peoria had sought the Republican meeting.

Democrats haven't set the time and place of their convention.

pictured as that of distributing available strength to meet axis thrusts and developing allied counter-drives. The axis strategy was thought to follow these lines:

Probable Axis Strategy
In Africa the Germans would try to exploit the breakthrough in the western desert with a smash into Egypt and toward the Suez canal. An attempt would be made to rush to this new battlefield the strong forces long immobilized in Italy and Greece.

This would involve the use of all available units of the Italian fleet under an umbrella of combat planes based in Italy, Crete and African coastal positions wrested from the British.

In southeastern Europe there would be an all-out drive toward the Caucasus oil lands. It might be coupled with a push toward Suez from the north, either by way of Crete and Syria or through neutral Turkey.

From western Europe the Germans would unleash an intensified air-sea campaign against British and United States shipping. This might involve raids on England, a sea foray against Iceland by the battleship Tirpitz and the new aircraft carriers Graf Zeppelin and Deutschland, and possibly diversion air raids on Washington and New York.

The Japanese, under a co-ordinated attack strategy, would strike at the Red Siberian armies in time with Nazi assaults in Europe.

Poets' Corner

GOD'S WAR?

With apologies to Pvt. Joe Louis, who did not intend to name it thus, to Carl Byoir, who misunderstood.

God's War? He who works in mystery,
His wonders to perform.
Who tempers the winds, with mercy,
To the lamb, that is newly born.
Who grants the plea of forgiveness,
When He hears a soul's faint, call,
Who numbers the hairs upon our head,
And marks the sparrow's fall.

Can this war of world wide conflict,
Be a part of His wonderful plan?
No, it is just the hatred
Of man's injustice, to man.

Tho all men are created equal,
By right of nature's birth.
Yet all things must suffer death,
To win life.

Even this grand old earth.

For the green hills are lush with verdure,
The fields feed the beast, and the cow.
Then comes man to tear at their roots,
With the steel-pointed blade of the plow.

The harrow, with jagged teeth dig deep,
To make beds, for the seed, that is sown.
And old Mother Earth comes smiling thru,
With food, for humanity grown.

Nature sends a tornado leveling high and low to one plane.
But man with his urge of conquest,
Soon builds a city again.

A mother, goes down in the valley of death,
Braving, travail and strife
But out of the shadow, comes smiling thru,
She too, has brought forth a life.

God's War? Can we teach the nations that,
Who have felt the tyrant's rule?
That God is the leader of conquering hordes.
If we think that we can, we're a fool.

For to them who are crushed and dying,
Sharing a bitter lot.
The war has been won, would you have them believe,
As their conqueror, God has forgot.

For if this were, God's war, He is mighty,
He could sway with a wave of His hand.
An army, one hundred million strong,
And crush with His touch, any land.

As long as all men are God's children,
In His image, created to life,
What rule would He use, to distinguish,
Between conqueror and conquered, in strife.

No, this is man's war, 'twill be over,
Bloodshed, and suffering, will cease.
When man, will have crowned Him, king again,
Then only, will man have peace.

For the God is a God of mercy,
He's a jealous God at heart,
And if He forgives again and again,
He wants man to do his part.

And when man, has learned this lesson,
Shed his blood, and bitter tears,
God will relent and forgive again,
Peace will reign, for a thousand years.

And tho the price be so heavy,
And hearts wonder—what is it for,
Like mother in travail,
That there shall be life,
There'll be God's peace,
Not God's war.

Mabel Nagel.

Turks of Syria direct.

The point is that Rommel, who is showing superior strength, might compel the British to withdraw forces from Syria or other parts of the Middle East to protect Egypt. That probably is one of the main things that Hitler is playing for—to weaken the allied defense in the Middle East in preparation for his own great offensive.

Yankee bombers already are doing yeoman's work in this eastern Mediterranean and Middle Eastern theatre, and probably a reinforcement of our air fleets there would represent our most feasible aid for the immediate future. One suspects, however, that Churchill also is asking for warships in the Mediterranean, or at least for troops both for Egypt and the Middle East.

Competent observers in London think such a reinforcement of the Mediterranean might cause a postponement of the opening of a second front in western Europe until the spring. Still, Hitler probably has the strength to stand off an allied invasion of western Europe while he stages an all-out offensive towards Syria or against the Russians.

Should the Nazi chief succeed in breaking into the Middle East while holding on his western front, the allied cause certainly would be in a precarious position. So if the allied high command should be faced with the necessity of making a choice between reinforcing the eastern Mediterranean or invading the continent, it wouldn't be surprising to see them choose the former course.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
The unluckiest man in baseball, by all odds, is Lefty Edgar Smith of the Chicago White Sox.

After he had lost ten games in a row without winning, the fat, good-natured southpaw star thought his tide had turned Sunday when he beat the Washington Senators. He figured he had hit bottom in the game he lost 2-0 to the Philadelphia Athletics although allowing only two hits.

But Smith learned last night that there are even tougher breaks: The Boston Red Sox beat him 1-0 on a home run when the ball stuck under the bull pen bench at Comiskey Park.

Smith waged a magnificent hurling duel with Broadway Charley Wagner of the Red Sox, spacing seven hits to Wagner's six. The only difference between the two was that drive by Dominic DiMaggio which rolled out of sight under the bench and couldn't be found till DiMaggio was crossing the plate.

Six Lone Run Losses
Smith had been beaten twice before 1-0, twice 2-1, once 4-3 and once, of course, 2-0. Altogether he has lost six games by one run. This dramatic mischance took some of the attention away from the New York Yankees' fourth loss in five games; Paul Waner getting his 3,000th hit; the Brooklyn Dodgers downing the St. Louis Cardinals again; and other sprightly developments.

The Yanks were whipped 5-4 at Cleveland as the veteran Mel Harder pitched four-hit ball, blanking all the Yanks except Bill Dickie (1 hit) and Phil Rizzuto who hit a two-run homer. The Indians were held to five hits by Lefty Gomez and John Murphy, but two of these hits were a homer and a triple by Oris Hockett.

John Niggeling pitched a four-hit shutout as the St. Louis Browns pelted the Philadelphia Athletics 4-0 with a 12-hit attack and Hal White hurled six-hit ball as the Detroit Tigers trimmed the Washington Senators 5-1.

Dodgers Win Again
The Dodgers boosted their national League lead to 6½ games by stopping St. Louis for the second straight time 4-3. Whitlow Wyatt annexing his seventh triumph against one defeat.

Waner's entry into a select group of six all-time stars who have made 3,000 hits—Cobb, Speaker, Wagner, Collins, LaJole and Anson, all of them in baseball's Hall of Fame—proved just an incident in a thrilling 11-inning struggle which the Pittsburgh Pirates captured from the Boston Braves 7-6. Bob Elliott's second home run with two on in the 11th provided enough margin to withstand a two-run circuit clout by Nanny Fernandez in the last half of the inning.

Cubs Split
Cincinnati subdued the Phils 6-4 on a three-run homer by Gee Walker, and the New York Giants beat the Chicago Cubs 6-5 after losing the first game of a double-header 7-4. The two games produced 49 hits, including five home runs.

MacMitchell Favored in 1,500 Meters

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Father Knickerbocker's populace turned a very cold shoulder to the junior division of the 55th annual track and field meet but it is so worked up over today's metric mile that the betting fraternity is making book on the outcome.

The 1,500 meters, 120 yards short of a mile, brings together Leslie MacMitchell, defending champion, and the four men who have defeated him since last spring.

Burnham, Weed, 2-1
Despite his recent losses, the bookmakers still hold the New York U. graduate as the 6 to 5 favorite with Gil Dodds of Boston, the preacher's son, at 8 to 5. Bob Ginn, Nebraska mite who whipped him soundly in last week's national collegiates, is held at 9 to 5 while Don Burnham, Dartmouth sophomore, and Leroy Weed, Southern California ace, are 2 to 1 choices.

The remainder of the field, is bunched at 5 to 1.

That race, along with the pole vaulting of Cornelius Warmerdam, is expected to fill at least 15,000 of the seats at Randall's Island and make it possible for the A. A. U. to turn over some $75,000 to the Army Emergency Relief fund.

At least $600,000 of this will come from a 150-page program which is crammed with enough advertising to permit its distribution free to spectators.

New York A. C. Leads
The New York Athletic club hopes to break the San Francisco Olympic club's domination of the team championship and has concentrated much of its strength in events which the westerners scorned.

The New Yorkers built up a 27 to 0 edge over the Olympians yesterday by counting heavily in the 3,000-meter walk and the 10,000-meter run.

John P. Connolly won the walk while Lieut. Joe McCuskey of the U. S. Navy annexed the longer race for the winged foot club.

It was the 22nd A. A. U. title for McCuskey although his first in the 10,000 meters, a marathon of 6 miles, 376 yards and 4 inches. The ancient mariner trailed until a half mile from the finish when he spurred past Fred Wilt of Indiana University.

McCuskey's final half was timed in 2:18.

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Looks as if the navy's new 48-hour limit on athletic tours would put a real crimp in the football schedules of those big pre-flight schools. . . . Georgia, for instance, could hardly hop to New England or the Midwest, play a game and get home in time. . . . Auburn's Jack Meagher, who is handling the schedules for the Georgia outfit and the Jacksonville and Pensacola fliers, may find his own toughening-up program going real there.

THE REAL DECOY
Jim Reed of the Burlington (Ia.) Hawk-Eye Gazette reports that his townsman, John A. Dehner, was about ready to write off the next hunting season as a total loss the other night when his bird dog suddenly decided to make a point on its own dog house. . . . But on investigation, Dehner found a wild wood duck and eight ducklings hiding in the corner.

SHUT OUT ODDS-ON FAVORITE IN DWYER STAKES

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Six horses stepped up today to take a crack at Shut Out's hold on the championship of the three-year-olds in the 54th running of the Dwyer stakes at Aqueduct, but with Alsab on the shelf the chances are they'll just be out for the air.

For the chocolate son of Equipoise, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont, is rated even money or possibly odds-on to add this mile and a quarter jackpot to his list and pick up a paycheck of 21,400. Alsab was figured to give him a "rattle" for this one, but "the Sab" is out for a month with a blind splint.

SAM CHAPMAN ENTERS NAVY FLIGHT TRAINING

Norfolk, Va., June 20.—(AP)—After serving five months as a physical instructor at the Norfolk Training station, Sam Chapman, former outfielder of the Philadelphia Athletics, left yesterday for the naval reserve aviation base at Washington, D. C., to begin flight training.

Chapman, a native of Tiburon, Calif., volunteered for aviation service. Now a chief petty officer, the ex-American half back at the University of California, will revert to seaman, second class, but has the opportunity of attaining commissioned status as a reserve ensign.

Appendicitis Attack was Just What Big Claude Passeau Needed

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

New York—Jimmy Wilson wishes all his Cubs nothing but the best of luck, but it would be all right with the Chicago manager if one or two more of his pitchers suffered an appendicitis attack such as the one that forced them to rush Claude William Passeau to a hospital.

Passeau had won six straight when he doubled up in pain. After skipping one start, while surgeons were making up their minds, he yielded the Phils one earned run and shut out the Brooklynins in successive five-hit performances.

As Leo Durocher remarked, following the Dodgers' "twilight" debacle at Ebbets Field: "You could have brought eight fellows from your office and beat us behind Passeau."

The medics, it seems, iced the opposition as well when they elected to freeze, instead of remove, Passeau's appendix.

Mel Ott of the Giants and others consider Morton Cooper of the Cardinals the best pitcher in the National League, if not in the game, but James Wilson and the Bruins will settle for Passeau.

Overcomes Handicap
Belted from the box by the Red Birds in the sixth stanza of the season's opener, but credited with the victory, Passeau has gone the route every trip since. His 6-0 shutout of the demon Dodgers marked the 12th time he had finished what he started and made him the first big leaguer to win 10 games.

John Niggeling, Browns—Shut out Athletics on four hits.
Charley Wagner and Dom DiMaggio, Red Sox—Former shut out White Sox on six hits and latter hit inside-park homer for only run of game.

Bob Elliott, Pirates—Hit two home runs, including one with two aboard in 11th inning for victory over Braves.
Lou Novikoff, Cubs, and Johnny Mize, Giants—Former made four hits, one of them a homer, to help win first game of double header and latter hit round-tripper in each tussle, his two-run homer proving deciding blow of nightcap.

WRIGHT SCORES T. K. O. OVER HARRY JEFFRA

Baltimore, June 20.—(AP)—Chalky Wright retained his featherweight championship against the challenge of Harry Jeffra last night, slowing down the Baltimore boy's speed with deadly close range punching and winning by a technical knockout in the tenth round.

A crowd of 6,000 which paid $16,500, saw the spindly legged Los Angeles champion solve Jeffra's hit-and-run tactics early, wear him down and smash him to the floor in the ninth. Jeffra came out for the tenth but Chalky beat him down again. He was up before the referee judged him in no condition to continue and stopped the fight. It had been scheduled for 15 rounds.

TURNESA STILL LEADS HOGAN AT RIDGEMOOR

Little Ben Shoots Record Breaking 62 for 134 Total

By GAYLE TALBOT

Chicago, June 20.—(AP)—United States Golf Association officials having seen one contestant round Ridgemoor in 62 and a dozen others turn in equally silly scores, are congratulating themselves for not recognizing the Hale America benefit tournament as the National Open.

The last two days have been exciting in a way, and the birdies and eagles undoubtedly will continue through tomorrow, but the players themselves have been the first to insist it isn't related even faintly to championship golf. The U. S. G. A. would have been mighty embarrassed if it had yielded to urging and run up its official flag.

Ridgemoor has proved far too easy for the top stars. Even Mike Turnesa, most phenomenal member of the golfing family at present, thought it funny when he scored a second round 66—six under par—to go with his 65 of the previous day.

Tough on Ben
"It's a little tough on Ben Hogan," he laughed. "He shoots a par 72 and then a 62 and I'm still leading him three strokes."

Hogan's 62 yesterday made Ridgemoor look like a pitch-and-putt layout. Ben, himself, conceded it wasn't his greatest golf. It was just a question of having 11 one-putt greens, he said.

As they started the third 18-hole round today, Mike Turnesa had three big strokes on Hogan and stood a good chance of hauling down first prize of $1,100. But he couldn't afford to slip to anywhere near par golf because the field still was close.

Field Close Behind
Tied with 36-hole totals of 135—a stroke behind Hogan—were two dangerous competitors, Horton Smith and Lawson Little. At 136 were Jimmy Demaret and Herman Barron; at 137 Denny Shute, Oley Crisman and Mike Supala; 138 Harold "Jug" McSpaden, Dick Metz, Johnny Dawson, Bill Dear and Wilford Wehrle, the last two amateurs; and at 138 were Byron Nelson, Ky Laffoon, Lloyd Mangrum and Buck White, eight strokes off the dizzy pace.

Carries Good Luck
A superstitious cuss, he still carries a buckeye in his back pocket. Someone gave it to him the day he got his tractor and a victory over the Cardinals despite an early shower.

But right now Claude Passeau can win despite his blister and without his buckeye.

There is nothing nutty about his pitching.

WITZLEB COMES FROM BEHIND FOR VICTORY

Chicago, June 20.—(AP)—Tall Bill Witzleb of Dixon today could count the Western Junior as well as the Illinois College Conference title among this recent golfing achievements after his 2 and 1 triumph yesterday over Jack Krejci of La Grange, Ill.

Witzleb had to come from behind to win the Western Junior after holding a one up edge at the end of Thursday's first 18 holes. Yesterday he fell two behind at the start of the second 18 hole round, but then bounced ahead again and won on the 17th as Krejci encountered trouble with his putter.

JACK WALLAESA, MACKS' SHORTSTOP, JOINS ARMY

Newark, N. J., June 20.—(AP)—Jack Wallaesa, 21 years old, shortstop for the Philadelphia Athletics of the American league, passed the army physical examination at the induction station here yesterday. He will be inducted today. He enlisted in the army at Phillipsburg, N. J., after getting a call from his local draft board.

Men of Merchant Marine Know They Are Right in War

But They Would Laugh at You if You'd Called Them Heroes

Miami, Fla. —(Wide World)—They come in from the sea in groups, leaving their ships in Davy Jones' locker. They've heard the muffled thunder of torpedo explosions, the crack of shells, the chatter of machineguns.

Heroes? They'd laugh at you. But there's something about their spirit, their determination to get aboard another ship and sail again, that speaks of Batman and Corregidor.

They're men of the merchant marine. Mostly they're American, those who land at "an east coast port". But there are plenty who list the other United Nations—as home. They're generally described as "survivors" of some unnamed vessel. Their number, since the Germans and Italians opened their undersea war in western hemisphere waters, has grown to total hundreds.

They tell of those who didn't come back. Once in a while their gun crews get a crack at skulking attackers, and they tell of that. They're in the war. They know it. They accept it and the attendant dangers. Heroes? You decide. The ship was ablaze from the torpedo explosion, but Radio Operator Kenneth Morgan of Princeton, Ky., stuck at his post, pounding out distress calls, until he fell unconscious on the floor. Capt. Walter Reed of Oaklyn, N. J., stumbled through the smoke, picked him up, carried him to a lifeboat. Then the captain returned and rescued Raymond Limpo, Filipino messboy.

Preston Carpenter, of Beaumont, Texas, was swimming for his life away from a burning ship. A submarine crew was spraying machinegun bullets at the men attempting to escape. Carpenter saw an injured shipmate, Ralph Harris, of Port Arthur, Texas, struggling in the water. For three hours he supported the man until help came.

Robert Beyer found himself alone in a lifeboat too large for one man to handle. He drifted into a patch of burning oil. A naval craft plunged in after him, brought him out safely.

Thomas Jones, of Birkenhead, England, his leg broken in a torpedoing, clung to a piece of wreckage, overlooked by rescuers. A naval plane dived overhead. The pilot, Ensign John F. Gray, of Champaign, Ill., saw Jones, alighted on the water. Wesley White, the plane's radioman, swam to the injured man, splinted his broken leg, helped him to the plane. White remained behind on the wreckage while Jones was flown to a hospital. Another plane rescued the radioman.

"What was the tonnage of your ship?" a German officer shouted from a submarine to a few in lifeboats. Slyly, the crew gave a figure 2,000 tons above the vessel's actual weight. The Germans on the undersea raider cheered, clapped their hands.

A torpedo rumbled against the side of a vessel making good headway. Lowering lifeboats with the ship under way would have been dangerous. Third Assistant Engineer P. Shera, of Columbus, O., stayed below to shut off the engines but ordered everybody else out. He died when a second torpedo exploded.

These are the men of the merchant marine.

Atlantic Charter Is Beginning to Swing Into Action

U. S. Agreements With Allied Nations Lead To This Belief
New York, June 20—(Wide World)—The words have been coming fast but this government's effort to set in motion the terms of the Atlantic Charter, looking toward a prosperous peacetime world, has begun to put the words into action.
The action: The United States' lend-lease agreements with Great Britain, Russia and China with the purpose of extending their benefits into post-war economic collaboration among the four nations.
The words: Statements by government officials—stimulated by America's dominant world position and its great production capabilities — thinking in world terms and pointing out what they consider post-war tasks.
The statements were made at different times and places in the past six weeks but examined together they fit into one pattern and show the same tone: The need after the war for cooperation among all nations to insure worldwide employment and comfort.
Significantly, they emphasize in the midst of this war—which has seen American planes bomb Tokyo, start a ferry service over the South Atlantic and Africa, shuttle across the North Atlantic and commute between India and China—that "men are growing closer together."
Far-Reaching Rights
Repeatedly speaking of the rights to a decent living standard of the "plain people" and the "common man everywhere", they include in their ideas for the post-war world not only the inhabitants of Russia, China and India but also of Germany, Italy and Japan.
They foresee one of the great problems not in production but in the "distribution" of production results—goods—into the hands of the earth's inhabitants.
The word "tariff" itself is not used in the officials' utterances in connection with the distribution problem but reduction of tariff barriers is stressed in the lend-lease agreement with Russia.
What these officials have said and what the government has done hinge on articles 4 and 5 of the Atlantic Charter, drawn up last summer by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, which seeks:
A full collaboration among nations in the economic field aimed at improved labor standards, economic advancement, social security, and access on equal terms to the trade and raw materials of the world.
Four Freedoms Included
Implicit in the charter, of course, are the four freedoms: Freedom of religion and speech and freedom from want and fear.
Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, without mentioning "tariff" by name, said:
"This country was long-dominated by its minority interests who sought to destroy international trade in order to avoid facing foreign competition. The destruction of international trade by special minority interests in this and other countries brought ruin to their fellow citizens x x x."
Welles did not use the phrase "league of nations" but, foreseeing a period of "social and economic chaos" after the war, he suggested the United Nations might become the nucleus for a world organization to settle the peace and the problems of rehabilitation.
VAUGHAN HITS 300 DOUBLES
Arky Vaughan chalked up May 19, 1942, as a big date in his long and distinguished diamond career. The Brooklyn Dodger third baseman, who was National League batting champion back in 1935 as Pittsburgh's shortstop, joined the select list of National League power and speed with 300 major league 2-baggers to their credit. The 2-base hit represents talent both with the bat and the legs. That extra base on a blow to the outfield often means the difference between winning and losing the game. There's only 6 other stars paving the sod in the present circuit today who have hit "300" in the major leagues with a doubles meaning. The score the day Vaughan clicked stood: Paul Waner, the top, 570, Ducky Medwick, 423, Dick Bartell, 421, Mel Ott, 419, Billy Herman, 386, and Gee Walker, 326. The Dodger not corner keeper socked his 300th 2-baser in the 7th inning May 19 off Bill Lee, of the Cubs.
U. S. Public Roads Administration
figures show that while private motor vehicle ownership in the U. S. has risen 20 per cent in the past decade, the number of vehicles owned and operated by federal, state, and local governments has risen 146 per cent.

Relatives here have received word of the death of Mrs. Lillian Townsend at her home in Oakland, California. Mrs. Townsend was the sister of Mrs. May Brown of this place. Her girlhood days were spent in this community. She attended the local high school and later was united in marriage to Lorraine Townsend who died several years ago. Funeral services and burial were held Friday afternoon in Oakland.

The north of town Thimble club met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Wilbur Harzell. About thirty were present to enjoy the afternoon which was spent in sewing and social visiting. At the close of the meeting lovely refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Rose Withey.

Recently Resigned
At a recent meeting of the officers and teachers of the Methodist Sunday school, F. J. Blocher resigned as superintendent of the Sunday school. Fred C. Gross was elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Blocher was chosen superintendent in 1933, taking the place of the late E. Ray Lahnman who moved to Iowa. For nearly thirty years Mr. Blocher has been a most faithful superintendent. It was a very rare occasion that kept him away from his place in the Sunday school. He certainly deserves a vacation. Mr. Gross will make a splendid superintendent and will have the interest of the Sunday school and the Methodist church at heart at all times.
